

SAROFIM SCHOLARSHIPS IN THEATRE ARE FOR THEATRE MAJORS ONLY.

- Sarofim Scholarships are renewable annually up to four years, based on satisfactory performance and continuation as a theatre major.
- This scholarship is made with the expectation that you will make significant contributions to the theatrical life of Southwestern University. Your Sarofim Scholarship is renewable for a total of eight semesters, subject to departmental review of the following criteria: satisfactory academic progress, contribution to the departmental activities, satisfactory performance with promise of continued growth, demonstration of motivation and interest and maintenance of a 3.0 grade point average in theatre coursework and a 2.5 grade point average in your overall studies. This scholarship is not transferrable to off campus study or study abroad programs.

Eligibility Requirements

- Candidates must apply for general admission to Southwestern University separately, and must have an active application to Southwestern University in order to schedule an audition. However, they need not have been accepted yet in order to audition. Please note that, although recommendations will be made following a student's audition, admission to Southwestern must be granted in order to receive the scholarship. An individual student's admission status may not be determined until after the final audition deadline in March.
- Recipients of Sarofim Scholarship in Theatre and Performance Awards may also be eligible for additional assistance such as academic scholarships. In addition, recipients may apply for University need-based aid.
- For more information, please click: FINANCIAL AID, MERIT SCHOLARSHIPS or call 1-800-252-3166.
- Any financial aid offer from Southwestern University will be void as of May 1, 2018 if a student accepts financial aid from another college or university.
